UNIVERSITY COLLEGE TILBURG

ABOUT UNIVERSITY COLLEGE TILBURG

University College Tilburg (UCT) is part of Tilburg University, a small but thriving university specializing in Social Sciences and Arts & Humanities. UCT provides the Bachelor's program Liberal Arts and Sciences where students examine global issues using insights from a range of academic disciplines, such as law, social sciences, humanities, economics and cognitive neurosciences. Set right in the middle of Tilburg University's green campus, UCT's mission is to give ambitious and internationally oriented students and scholars the place and opportunity to develop themselves. For more information, please visit the UCT website.

GOOD TO KNOW

Small-Scale and Interactive Classes

The LAS program is a small-scale program, characterized by a high level of student activity and interaction. Students are expected to actively contribute to tutorials on a regular basis by debating and arguing their point of view, by presenting a research assignment or a paper they have written. The small class size and the interactive character of the program allow for a strong emphasis on the training of academic skills.

Interdisciplinary Approach

Students are taught to approach complex issues from different perspectives and a variety of academic disciplines. To achieve this, several courses are team-taught, with two lecturers from different fields jointly teaching the course, demonstrating how you can approach a question or issue from different angles right in front of the classroom.

Larger Network

Students in the program are able to benefit from being part of a tight community of LAS students, while also mingling with all of Tilburg University's programs and nationalities as we are located on its vibrant, multicultural, and beautiful, green campus.
